There is a famous quote that states, in essence..doing the same thing over and over and expecting a different result is the definition of insanity. So here we are again, Falcon Creek and Cross Creek vs Dewey Engineering, wasting your time arguing over what one of your own panel members described as a 'narrow slip of property with a creek bed running through the middle that doesn't lend itself to development'. The miniscule changes to the previously submitted plan do not in any way negate any of the arguments already posed regarding the negative impact this project would have on the existing subdivisions. Our sleepy community of Falcon Creek would be completely ruined with large trucks running up and down our streets with construction debris and huge construction vehicles lumbering back and forth. Once construction was finished many months or years later, local traffic would be horrendous. Not even considering the increased over taxing of our water and sewer systems.

As I drive around the area near my home all the beautiful fields and forested areas that caused us to fall in love with and settle down here are gone. All I see are metal fences and construction signs, earth stripped of green, dug up turned over and blasted. There are huge piles of dirt, stones and other construction debris every where I look. But most of those aren't in somebody's back yard. I'm sure someone thought they had made a great investment when they bought the narrow slip of land with a creek running through the middle of it, that they could plop a bunch of homes, with no yards, on and walk away with a fat wallet. Not every square mile of Franklin needs to have pavement, concrete and buildings in it.

Please, could the insanity end.
